

WOLF

Hair Gel

For spikes & added drama! You could use this affordable hypoallergenic one (always paraben-free) or this toxin-free choice (aloe and witch hazel-based that's also never tested on animals)

CHEAP BLACK GLOVES

I cut the tips off of cheap black Dollar Store gloves, then just used a hot glue gun to add a small square of "furry" material. Looked like a wolf & bonus – kept him warm throughout the chilly Halloween evening!

vampire TEETH

Gross plastic ones from the Dollar Store

TEXTURED material

I went to the local fabric shop with my son & he had so much fun looking at all the textured choices to look shaggy like fur. He would slowly run his hand over each one, look if it shimmered in the light, & then settled on these 2 choices. Grab 1 cut (black, brown or silver) measuring a bit less than twice the height of your child & 1 smaller cut in the same color palette with a different texture for accent pieces.

FLOUR

FACE PAINT

Crazy good face painting skills! (Ha- kidding! I just spent time browsing Pinterest for ideas & then practiced a ton). Some companies focus on non-toxic, hypoallergenic choices for kids, like Go Green.

nail POLISH

White nail polish for wolf claws (like this toxin-free one so you can use on kids)

animal SLIPPERS

These are the ones we used from Old Navy Canada, but these dinosaur ones are pretty stinkin' cute too! They're from this season's new collection.
